Torrid Wave Traveling Slowly Eastward

Record-breaking Heat Wave Kills 24 In Chicago—One Death and Three Prostrations In New York City—Three Drown In New England Waters—Mercury Climbs To 96 Here—Relief In Form of Thunder Showers Promised.

Chicago, July 21.—With 24 deaths in Chicago and suburbs as a result of the record-breaking heat wave of the past two days, relief in the form of thunderstorms was promised by the weather bureau today.

The mercury has hovered around the 90 mark since Sunday. Monday a maximum temperature of 94.2 made that day the hottest July 19 in the history of the local weather bureau. It claimed 14 lives. Yesterday the mercury climbed to 95 and 10 more persons succumbed to the heat.

The present torrid wave has been general over the middle western states. It is traveling slowly from west to east.

It was estimated that one million persons, a third of the population of Chicago, sought relief along the thirty miles of lake front yesterday. The beaches were crowded from dawn to dusk, many persons remaining there throughout the night.

Five of the heat victims were babies less than a year old. Dr. Frank Woodruff, curator of the Museum of Natural Science, died here today from heat prostration. Dr. Woodruff was stricken in his home shortly after luncheon.

Hospitals are jammed with cases of prostration. One man dropped dead after playing 18 holes of golf in the hot sun.

One Death In New York.

New York, July 21.—One death and three prostrations were reported today as the mercury climbed 22 degrees from 60 to 82.—In four hours, and gave no indication that it would stop until it had traveled at least 50 miles. The record for July 21 is 90 degrees.

Fortunately the humidity showed a steady decrease, dropping from 90 to 70 in two hours. Thunderstorms promised relief tonight, the weather bureau reported.

Three Drown In New England.

Boston, July 21.—New England suffered today in the grip of a heat wave that has indirectly caused three deaths, pushed the official thermometer up to 91, a new high record for July, and threatened to remain another 24 hours unless dispelled by expected thunderstorms.

Three persons, seeking relief from blistering heat, were drowned in England waters.

Eight Deaths In Arizona.

Yuma, Ariz., July 21.—Eight deaths were traced directly to the heat wave in this district when two unidentified Mexican and a black lying unconscious upon the tracks of the Southern Pacific railway, were killed by the flyer "Argo" six miles west of here today.

Six men, according to police, were killed by the heat while walking on the tracks in the desert.

Simpson, Southern Pacific engineer, died at a local hospital today from the after-effects of heat prostration.

Heat was promised today when light breeze continued to modify intensity of the heat.

Mercury Near Hundred Mark

Thunder showers either today or Thursday may bring relief to residents who Tuesday today found themselves sweating under the mid of the second real wave of the summer. Thermometers varied considerably, depending on their location.

Thermometer on the outside of Freeman office registered 96 while inside it was two degrees warmer. Thermometers which were placed in the sun registered 100 degrees.

Substantial decline in the humidity early morning brought relief during the day. Temperatures registered again at the same as they did today.

It is not ascertained whether the heat were relieved in Kingston.

STRIKE ON MECHANIC RAILROADS.

New York, July 21.—The general strike of laborers in the city of New York, which was called off today, is in a statement issued to the public.

Statement denied having any plans against the continuing out however, that the strike was illegal and was to give adequate protection to the strike breakers.

Mellett Murder Still Unsolved

Detective Slater Admits He Has No Real Evidence—The Fourth Estate Engages Burns Agency—Psalias Released.

Canton, Ohio, July 21.—Authorities who were working for a solution of the assassination of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton News, five days after the crime was committed, except for a bit of circumstantial evidence that has not yet been thoroughly checked, were no nearer the end of their investigation today than they were five minutes after the publisher was killed.

That much was practically admitted by Detective Ora Slater, who is in charge of the sweeping probe here in a statement to International News Service before he went back to Pittsburgh at 4 o'clock this morning with County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock, Deputy Sheriff Ed Gibson and the "mystery witness" who claims to have seen a man resembling descriptions of George Psalias, who is under arrest in Pittsburgh, sitting in a certain automobile near the Mellett home a few minutes before the murder was committed.

The "mystery man's" identity was revealed here today as Henry C. Deville, a Canton broker and an employee of the Canton Daily News until 1921.

"The only thing we have to do in Pittsburgh is to line up Psalias with four or five other men and let our man try to pick him out as the person he saw near Mellett's home on the night of the crime," said Slater.

Engage Burns Agency.

Accepting the belief that Don R. Mellett, 36, was assassinated in the first move of a general conspiracy to kill all newspaper publishers and editors whose crusades hurt the activities of organized gangs of violators, the Fourth Estate, one of the leading newspapers trade journals, through its publishers, H. M. Newman, has engaged the William J. Burns International Detective Agency to track down the slayers of Canton's crusading publisher.

According to a telegram received today by the editors of the Canton Daily News, the Burns Agency has been instructed to investigate the different ramifications of "what appears to be a concerted attempt to throttle the press of the United States by this violence on certain newspaper editors and publishers who are prominent for their activities against organized crime."

Order Release of Psalias.

Pittsburgh, July 21.—Common Pleas Judge James R. MacFarlane today ordered Psalias, held in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton, O., publisher, released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge MacFarlane held that there was insufficient evidence to warrant holding Psalias longer.

Judge James R. MacFarlane delivered his decision without calling for witnesses, holding that there was insufficient evidence in the brief read by William M. Randolph, assistant city prosecutor, to hold Psalias.

C. B. McClintock, city prosecutor of Canton, Ohio, indicated that no further effort would be made to hold Psalias in connection with the murder of Mellett.

Failed to Identify Psalias.

Psalias' release followed the failure of Henry C. Deville, Canton broker upon whom authorities pinned their hopes of having the man held, to identify Psalias as the man he saw in the vicinity of the Mellett residence shortly before the slaying.

After viewing Psalias, Deville said he was not certain that he was the man he saw at the scene of an automobile near the Mellett home, although the prisoner "resembled him somewhat."

Deville came here with the understanding that his name would not be made public, but he turned upon his arrival at the country jail that his name had been broadcast.

Detective Ora Slater, special investigator, and Police Lieut. Peter Conners, of the local homicide squad, said that fear of vengeance from the gang that killed Mellett might have influenced the witness in his identification effort after he learned that his name had been revealed.

Cione Drowns in Rondout Creek

Nine Year Old Boy of Sycamore Street Fell Overboard From Rowboat Early Tuesday Night—Body Recovered by Thomas Williams.

Thomas, the nine year old son of Vincenzo and Amelia Fabiano Cione of No. 20 Sycamore street, was drowned in the Rondout creek early Tuesday evening when he fell overboard from a rowboat. The body was recovered later by Thomas Williams.

It was early evening when Mrs. Lange of East Strand telephoned Sergeant Simpson at police headquarters that she had seen the Cione boy playing in a rowboat tied to the dock opposite the Suskind grocery store at No. 247 East Strand, and that when she looked again the boat was empty and the boy had disappeared. She said she believed the boy had fallen overboard.

Sergeant Simpson hurried Officer Burger with the pulmotor to the scene to be ready for use when the body was recovered. In the meantime a check up of the Cione family showed that Thomas was the child missing, and as it was known he likes to attend the movies Sergeant Simpson had a call for the boy dashed on the screens in the movie houses.

A number of boys who were swimming in the creek near the place where Cione was last seen dived for the body but without success, and it was not until about 9:30 o'clock that Thomas Williams brought the body to the surface. The boy had been in the water for over an hour and it was impossible to resuscitate him.

Coroner W. N. Conner was called and turned the body over to Undertaker James V. Halloran. Funeral services will be held from the family home Friday morning at 8:45 o'clock and from St. Mary's Church at 9:30 o'clock with a high Mass of requiem for the repose of his soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Hipolito Villa Free Under Bond

El Paso, Tex., July 21.—Hipolito Villa, brother of the picturesque late Pancho Villa, was conveyed secretly by friends to Chihuahua from Durango City following his release under bond on charges of banditry, according to news reaching here today.

Since Hipolito was pounced on at the border and thrown into the Durango Penitentiary charged with participating in a train robbery he has stoutly denied the allegations and has attributed his arrest to political reasons.

Friends of Hipolito Villa declare that his sudden removal from the border was a gesture of the Calles Government's Secret Service designed to break any possible contact Villa might have established with plotters against the peace of Northern Mexico.

Proceedings at the hearing of Hipolito in Durango, according to his supporters, indicated the determination of the Calles Government to place Hipolito in the same "common bandit" class as his dead brother, for the effect such record may have upon the deliberations of the joint claims commission recently broken up by the Octavio decision in the celebrated Santa Isabel massacre case. This commission is at a standstill until a successor to Judge Octavio is selected.

The Federal Prosecutor, Ireneo Quintero, of Durango, scoffs at these allegations, and demands that Hipolito be punished with a twelve-year term in the penitentiary.

Meanwhile, Villa, under four thousand pesos bond, is quietly at work on his Chihuahua Ranch harvesting his wheat crop and preparing his further defense when his case is called.

Hipolito Villa, leading the remnants of his brother Pancho's "Desamados" took this field in 1924, abandoning Canutillo Hacienda, their citadel on the Northern Durango Boundary. After Obregon's forces confiscated their property was confiscated by the government. Most of the rebellious chiefs at that time received amnesty.

Although there is undisputed enmity to the Villista faction prevailing in Durango City, Hipolito's friends are confident he will be acquitted of the robbery charges.

EXPECT BIG ATTENDANCE AT ROTARY CONFERENCE

On August 20 and 21 there will be held in Port Jervis an executive conference of the 23rd Rotary district. This conference will be presided over by the Rev. Otto Mohr of States Island, who is district governor, and will be attended by presidents and secretaries of Rotary organizations in the district. Many of the delegates will probably bring their wives and an attendance of over 200 is expected. The Port Jervis organization is making ready to entertain them.

Memorandum From Sunday.

The Roundout Social Mannerism will hold a picnic at Peter's grove, Hollow, Sunday, July 25, morning and afternoon. There will be athletic events and sports of various kinds with ample refreshment.

Three Dead In Heligoland Boating At Calcutta.

London, July 21.—Heligoland boating was renewed in Calcutta this morning, according to advice received here.

Three persons are dead and four injured as the result of the latest boating.

The motor proceeded vigorously despite the fact that the police drove armored cars into the mobs to disperse them.

The total casualties for the past twenty-four hours are twenty-seven, five of whom are dead.

Cherry Tree Fall Fatal.

Nine Juliana King of Graham died Tuesday in the Graham Emergency Hospital. She was picking cherries and fell from the tree, sustaining injuries about the head, a broken leg and two broken arms.

Boy Hurt in Fall From Window

Harry, the twelve year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cohen, who reside in apartments on the first floor of the Mansion House building, Broadway and Strand, about 10 o'clock Tuesday evening, fell from the first floor window in the rear of the building and was quite badly injured. He was rushed to the Kingston City Hospital where it was found he had sustained a broken leg and bruises about the body.

Dispute Proper Tomb for Wife

Families Disagreed Whether It Should Be Beside Her Husband—Her Family Demands It Be Returned.

A very unusual situation faces the officers of the Lloyd Cemetery Association. The situation grows out of the removal of a body from one burial plot to another in the cemetery in what appears to be a family affair. The cemetery association had not given authority, and maintains that it had no power to grant permission for the removal of the body from one grave to another.

It appears that several years ago Edward J. Townsend of the town of Lloyd married Grace Scott of the same town. They were married it is said without the consent of the girl's mother. For several years they resided together happily until the death of Mrs. Grace Townsend. Upon her death her husband purchased a plot in the Lloyd cemetery and interred the remains of his wife in the plot and erected a suitable monument thereon.

Later Edward J. Townsend died and his body was buried in his plot alongside that of his wife. It appears that there was family trouble between the Scott and Townsend families and the two mothers-in-law, Mrs. Carrie Scott and Mrs. Mary E. Townsend, became involved in a discussion over the proper place for the body of Edward J. Townsend's wife. Mrs. Scott asked permission of the cemetery association officials for the removal of the body of her daughter from the Townsend plot to the Scott plot. The cemetery association it is said informed her that they had no authority to grant her permission to remove the body from one plot to the other.

However, Mrs. Scott caused the body of her daughter to be moved from the Townsend plot where it rested alongside her husband, to the Scott family plot in the same cemetery.

Now the Townsend family demand that the body be re-interred in the Townsend plot alongside the body of Edward J. Townsend where it originally was.

The case is a most unusual one and presents a legal question which the law is not often called on to determine.

Seer Points to French Panic

Says Condition in France Justifies His Prediction of World-wide Catastrophe—Reminds Scorners of Noah's Critics.

Shesham, Eng., July 21.—Although no catastrophe overwhelmed the world yesterday as prophesied by the Rev. Walter Wynn, the seer who derives his prophecies from the hieroglyphics on the great pyramid near Cairo was undisturbed when seen by an International News Service correspondent today.

"The predictions I outlined," he said, "have been fulfilled. Yesterday, chaotic conditions in France justified the dates and auguries of the pyramid. What is occurring in France today is a fair index of what is about to occur throughout the world."

Wynn pointed out that his information as stated in his forecast indicated a catastrophe, either in inception or in actuality. He was inclined to think that the troubles of France marked "the beginning of serious trouble and a critical period for the world."

Referring to the scoffing of the press, Wynn said briefly: "Eleven men laughed at Noah—I stand on what I have previously said."

WILL SEEK INDICTMENTS IN MC CULLOUGH DEATH.

Waltham, Mass., July 21.—District Attorney Arthur K. Reading of Middlesex county announced today that he expected to go before the September Grand Jury to seek indictments against Dr. James J. A. Nolan, 55, of Brookline, Mrs. Abbie Graham, 37, and Richard King, 21, of Waltham, in connection with the death of Lillian McCullough, 18.

An illegal operation resulted in the girl's death, according to a report submitted to Reading by Medical Examiner Timothy L. W. of Middlesex county, and George O. West of Middlesex county, after an autopsy.

Dr. Nolan, charged with performing the operation, was at liberty in $20,000 bail. Mrs. Graham, in whose home the operation took place, and King, alleged sweetheart of the girl, are held in $2,000 each on necessary charges.

The trial was taken in custody a few hours after the girl made a deathbed statement, according to police who said King admitted responsibility for her condition and that Mrs. Graham told him she accepted money from King and gave it to Dr. Nolan to perform the operation.

More Cases to Boston Bureau.

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—Inspector Eddie Moore has been returned to the Boston Bureau by the Pittsburgh Pirates. It was announced today. The Boston Club is understood to have paid the Pirates $4,000 for Moore's contract. He will join the Braves on Wednesday.

"Rat" Got Acquitted.

Charlotte, N. C., July 21.—After nearly 40 hours' deliberation, the jury deciding the fate of Mrs. Nellie Freeman, youthful "rat" girl, returned a verdict of "not guilty" today. The girl was charged with the murder of her husband, Alton Freeman, with a razor.

Reinforcement of Customs Patrol

Every District Given Additional Customs Patrolmen in Drive to Check Smuggling—18 Men Assigned to Northern New York.

Washington, July 21.—Allocation of reinforcements to complete the wall of men and guns erected about the United States to check liquor and narcotics smuggling was announced by the treasury today.

Practically every district was given additional customs patrolmen. New York city was given a patrol of thirty-four men to watch incoming ships for liquor shipments and merchandise smugglers, and to combat smugglers who succeed in getting their goods through the coast guard blockade off Long Island.

Eighteen men were assigned to Northern New York, Buffalo and Rochester to combat liquor shipments over the Canadian border. Florida, another danger zone, was reinforced with twenty men, Vermont six and Boston ten.

Twenty-four men will be added to the Montana border patrol. Officials explained this unit would be confronted principally with cattle and wheat smuggling. Thousands of wheat and a tremendous amount of what are smuggled over the Montana border annually to avoid tariff duties.

Reinforcements of the customs patrol will increase collection of import duties on the Canadian and Mexican borders probably fifty per cent, according to officials, in addition to materially reducing illegal entry of contraband.

The reorganized patrol will attempt a closer check on smuggling by tourists and other travelers returning from Europe through the ports of New York and Boston. The government incurs a heavy loss as the result of dutiable commodities slipped by the customs authorities.

A considerable volume of jewelry is smuggled into the country through New York, Boston and over the Canadian border from Montreal and Quebec, officials said.

Submit Sunday Movie Question To Voters

Common Council Adopts Report of Laws and Rules Committee Recommending That Entire Matter be Submitted at November Election—Other Matters Before Aldermen Tuesday Evening.

The Sunday movie question in Kingston is to be decided at the polls here on November 2, when the proposition will be submitted to the voters at the general election. That action was decided upon by the common council at the adjourned meeting held Tuesday evening when the report of the laws and rules committee was unanimously adopted.

Some time ago Alderman Clara, of the Eighth ward, introduced an ordinance permitting Sunday movie shows in Kingston and the ordinance was referred to the laws and rules committee, of which he is a member. Since then a number of churches and organizations have gone on record as opposed to Sunday movies in Kingston, and have filed their objections with the common council.

The objections filed led to the determination to submit the entire question to the voters of the city, and at the meeting Tuesday evening the laws and rules committee submitted the following report:

The Committee's Report.

The laws and rules committee reports on the Sunday motion picture resolution as follows: It is recommended that the following proposition be submitted to the voters of the city of Kingston at the next general election to be held on the 2nd day of November, 1926:

"Shall the common council of the city of Kingston pass an ordinance authorizing the exhibition of motion pictures on the first day of the week commonly called Sunday, after two o'clock in the afternoon?"

Respectfully submitted, GEORGE W. MOORE, Chairman.

E. J. DEMPSEY, JOSEPH RADEL, LEO W. CLARE, Dated, July 20th, 1926.

Alderman Haines Opposed.

Alderman Haines, of the Second ward, a member of the laws and rules committee, refused to sign the report as he was opposed to Sunday movies.

Alderman Clara moved that the report of the committee be adopted, which was seconded by Alderman Mann, and the vote was taken. Alderman Haines before registering his vote said: "I am strongly opposed to Sunday movies, as you all know, but I can see no harm in having the people vote on the question, and for that reason I vote 'Aye.'"

The report of the committee was unanimously adopted.

Alderman Radel Attends.

Seven weeks ago Tuesday Alderman Joseph Radel of the Seventh ward had his leg broken while at work on a shipyard, and Tuesday evening he had been able to attend since his accident. All of the aldermen were present at the session with the exception of Alderman Everett, who was excused.

Helm Seeks Damages.

F. C. Helm of Chicago, Ill., whose automobile was damaged recently in a collision with one of the fire trucks on Foxhall avenue, filed a claim against the city for $144.65 covering the cost of repairs to his car. The claim was referred to the auditing committee and the corporation counsel.

Resolutions Introduced.

The following resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city departments:

Alderman Fox—that Delaware avenue be topdressed and rolled from the Curtis House engine house to North street, as the road was in a dangerous condition to traffic.

Alderman Haines—that weeds and tall grass be cut on Foxhall avenue, between O'Neil and Elmwood streets, that the weeds be removed at once, that the weeds be cut at once, as this was the fourth request.

Alderman Moore—that holes in Ten Brook avenue, Elmwood street, Stephen street, Tarrytown street and Foxhall avenue be filled.

Alderman Nelson—that board of public works fill holes in Furrows street and Center street; that the street cleaner be put through Front street, Henry street and Liberty street.

Alderman Mann—that holes be filled in Murray street; that curb and gutter be raised on East Pierpont street.

Alderman Radel—that Spruce street be repaved; that Mr. Leavenworth be notified to relay sidewalk on Home street at once.

The council then adjourned.

Weightlifting's Arms Burned.

Going to a short circuit, a Studebaker sedan owned by Thomas Hourdahl of Old Harbor caught fire on Monday evening on the road under the mountain road and was destroyed. It was said the engine was not totally damaged.

CAR DROPS FORTY FEET BUT DRIVER IS HURT.

William John and family of Brooklyn had a narrow escape from death at Saugerties on Monday when the steering knuckle broke on the Chevrolet car which Mr. John was driving. The car plunged over the hill on Main street near the Mountain View cemetery, a drop of approximately forty feet. The car was wrecked but no one was injured. The car was damaged and was being towed to a garage near Saugerties for the summer.

"Monty's" Parents Live in Kingston

"Monty" Is Short Form for "Montreal," Where he Was Born—Only a Seal, But Is First Known to be Born in Captivity.

While on a tour through Canada recently Ringling Brothers' and Barnum & Bailey's circus had a new addition to their menagerie. That fact in itself would not be particularly interesting to Kingston people were it not that the parents of this latest arrival happen to be residents of Kingston, when they are not on the road.

The individual in question is a baby seal born at Montreal to "Major" and "Lady," two of the big show's performing animals. According to circus custom, the infant was named for the city in which it was born and is now known as "Monty" for the sake of brevity. Captain Mark Huling, owner of the trained sea-lions with the Ringling-Barnum show, who has a breeding farm and training school in this city just across the Washington avenue viaduct, stated that the seal is the first one known to have been born while his parents were in captivity. The new addition to the trained animal division weighs 15 pounds and both it and the mother were doing well at last reports. "Lady" went into performance at the matinee the day the little one arrived but was then kept out of the bill for a number of days. Captain Huling has been debating the question of when he would teach him to swim, for though the sea lion is an amphibious animal it drowns easily when first placed in the water. This little one will nurse from two to three months, following that it will be given the usual diet of fresh smelt or herring.

Captain Huling and his seals are well known to Kingston residents as he has had them perform here on a number of occasions. His seals balance sticks and balls on their pointed snouts, climb ladders balancing these balls and sticks, juggle flaming torches, and constantly applaud their own skill by pounding their flippers together resoundingly. The seals and their trainer have been given a great deal of attention wherever the Ringling-Barnum circus travels, and newspapers have written a number of feature articles about them. As the home of the seal is always mentioned in these articles, Captain Huling is bringing Kingston considerable publicity. The circus is now in Chicago for a nine-day stand.

It Wasn't Love

Miss Simpkins was of uncertain appearance and age, and rather frightened De Vere, a young assistant in a chemist's shop, by her demonstrations of friendship. He felt sure she meant to hook him. Chance threw them alone one day, and De Vere felt that his hour had come.

"Mr. De Vere," said Miss Simpkins, "I can no longer bear this unspeakable anguish. I have at last plucked up courage to ask you a question that concerns my future happiness and comfort. Will you be—"

"Madam," gasped De Vere, "it would break my heart to refuse. I have every regard and respect for—"

"Sir, what do you mean?" gasped Miss Simpkins. "Surely you can't object to my asking what brand of corn-cure you can recommend?"

Morris Dance Old Pattern

The Morris is a corruption wrought by time on an old French word, morisque, meaning simply Moorish. The Morris dance is an obsolete English dance said to have been of Moorish origin. It was extremely popular about 300 years ago. When danced in connection with May day it was an elaborate costume dance, in which were introduced the characters of Robin Hood, Maid Marian, Friar Tuck, Little John, a dragon, a bobby horse, etc. The costumes were usually decorated with small bells. A later version of the Morris dance survives in the northern counties of England.

Be Careful With Mirrors

A very common belief is that the breaking of a mirror will bring seven years of bad luck. This belief is said to have come from the use of mirrors by magicians in former times. If the magician broke the mirror those who consulted him could get no replies to their questions. But the nature of the ill-luck sometimes depends upon who breaks it. If a maiden breaks a mirror superstition tells her that she will never marry. On the other hand, if a married woman breaks it, the "sign" is death—Exchange.

Sorry He Spoke

During the World war the officers frequently had difficulty in getting the proper salutes from the negro recruits. One bright morning a negro private met the colonel of his regiment and greeted him with "Hoody, boss."

There followed a long tirade from the officer on the correct way to salute. The other listened in silence, scratching his head in perplexity. Finally he interrupted long enough to say:

"Land's sake, boss, if Ah'd thought you was goin' to feel so bad about it, Ah wouldn't have spoke to you a-tall."

New Use for Masks

Gas masks of the type that protected soldiers during the World war were pressed into service by a crew of workers in London while hunting leaks in the city gas mains. The board of the job was increased by the necessity of working in deep trenches where vapors had insufficient chance to escape to cause flows of considerable pressure were encountered. With the masks, the workers were able to make a thorough search.

Milton Has Two New Industries

One Resident Has Started Canning For the Market While Another Has Started to Raise Cavies—What Cavy Raising Is.

Milton, July 21.—Last spring after Mr. and Mrs. S. Birdsell Taber moved into the residence on the McNicholas farm, south of this village, Miss Mary A. Davis, sister of Mrs. Taber, began the canning of fruit. Miss Davis is now taking and filling orders for canning fruit. Some of her fruit is already being sold at Barrett McNicholas' roadside market.

Another new industry has been started by one of Milton's residents, namely the raising and selling of cavies, commonly known as guinea pigs. These animals are in great demand for experimental uses in the preparation, testing and standardizing of serums and antitoxins.

The following is taken from the Farmers' Bulletin No. 525 published by the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. and the Bureau of Animal Industry:

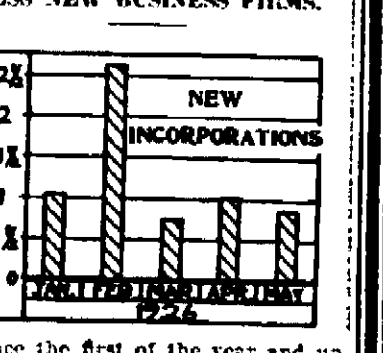

"The use of guinea pigs in medical research is steadily increasing and some of the large institutions unable to secure a steady supply, have set up breeding establishments of their own."

Very few people are acquainted with the origin, history and usefulness of these animals. When the Spaniards first invaded the Andean region of South America these animals were found domesticated and living in large numbers in the houses of the Indians. The cavy or guinea pig was carried to Europe by Dutch traders during the sixteenth century. Since then it has been kept in the Old World and in North America chiefly as a pet. The name pig is readily suggested by its form but the origin of guinea, as applied to it is unknown.

The domestic cavies are very clean and harmless. The wild cavies belong to a family of rodents and have stout bodies, short incisor teeth uncleft and upper lip, nearly equal legs and short tails and are found exclusively in South America. These are rather closely allied in structure to the rabbits. Unlike the domestic cavy they all have constant colors. Domestic cavies are wholly vegetarian, eating the same food as a rabbit. There are several varieties, English, Peruvian and Abyssinian.

In laboratory tests the cavies used are from six weeks to six months old. The English cavy has smooth hair, the Peruvian long silken hair. The cavies raised for commercial purposes are of the English breed and come in colors of white, black, red, fawn, cream, gray, brown or a mixture of these colors.

Medical research and other scientific investigations have created a great demand for them. This business recently started in Milton will be conducted under the name of "The Riverview Caviary." Cavies are easily managed and very little space is needed to accommodate them. A hutch three feet wide, two feet deep and fourteen inches high will take care of six cavies.

Since the first of the year and up to the end of May, the month of February saw the greatest new incorporations amounting to more than 2 1/2 billion dollars. The month of March saw the least, amounting to only about 1/2 of a billion dollars. The month of February was greater in this respect than any other two of the months put together.

The credit situation, however, is none too strong at the present time and the tendency seems to be toward even less satisfactory conditions. For this reason, it is no wonder that many people intending to open up new business firms have decided to await the fall in order to see whether or not any more unusual differences in the buying power of the people in different territories will develop.

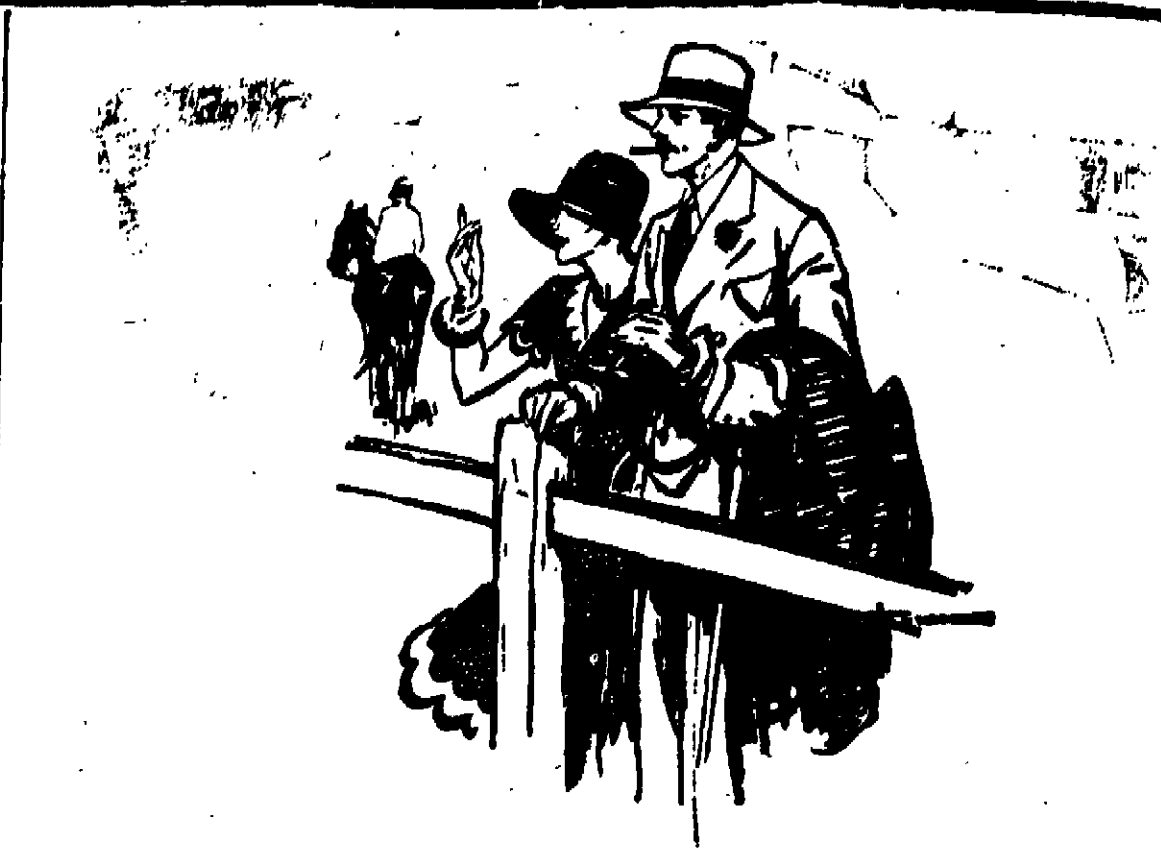

Mental Insurance

The aim of reading is gradually to create an ideal life, a sort of secret previous life, a refuge, a retreat, an eternal source of inspiration, in the soul of the reader. An habitual, improved reader is aware of this secret life within them due to books; it brings about a feeling of security and the immortality of the world; it is like an insurance policy, a sound balance at the bank, a lifeboat in a rough sea.

Here's the Cigarette Because "It's Toasted"

LUCKY STRIKES are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, perfectly blended.

Besides this supreme quality of leaf tobacco as compared with all other Cigarettes—"IT'S TOASTED".

Just what does this mean—this phrase, "IT'S TOASTED"? The tobacco is oven toasted at very high heats for 45 minutes; then chilled with the moisture completely restored. The toasting brings out the hidden flavors of the superbly fine tobacco. The chilling seals in these flavors; seals in, too, the moisture that has been restored. It all acts like a cold plunge on the pores of the body.

That's why LUCKIES taste so good. Why LUCKIES are always fresh when they come to you. Why millions prefer this uniquely fine cigarette.

BECAUSE IT'S TOASTED That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

CRIMINALS' FRIENDS.

The increase in crime is a challenge to the legal profession, according to the president of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, who had in view improvements in procedure. But an even greater responsibility confronts the profession—the need of finding means to limit the activities of lawyers known to serve the underworld, making it their regular business to get criminals off. In this connection Supreme Court Justice Callaghan of New York recently said to a graduating class of law students: "The resourceful criminal knows that he has at his back and call a host of men admitted to the bar ready and willing to undertake his defense should he be caught, and to assist him, by devious ways or subterranean methods, to beat the case." Going more into detail, an expert observer said in a recent article in the World's Work: "One of the means by which the criminal in the United States manages to escape the consequences of his deeds is his ability to retain lawyers who have little scruple in resorting to any means to get a client off, a method which the technicalities of the law and the ease of appeal facilitate. There was (in Chicago) a group of criminal lawyers whose work included dealings with the police, the furnishing of professional alibis and witnesses, jury tampering, the spiriting away of witnesses, procuring exhausting continuances, and all the underground activities of all-round fixers."

Though any criminal whatsoever is entitled to competent legal advice, and his defense is a legitimate branch of legal practice, the methods resorted to above are obviously as iniquitous as they are demoralizing and should be checked by all possible means—means which reputable lawyers in council are best equipped to find or suggest. The subject is one which may well receive the grave consideration of the bar associations and the profession generally.

NOISE AND HEALTH.

Noise is a public health problem of great importance, according to a writer in The Nation's Health, who discusses the relation between noise and industrial fatigue. It is pointed out that primitive peoples live in restful quiet except when it is thought desirable to play upon the emotions of the clan in preparation for war. The writer says in part:

Physiologists agree that noise is fatiguing, although there seems to be "aural tolerance" which is acquired, but not to the same extent by all persons. While the average person can adjust his nervous system to many noises without apparent harm, the more subtle effects can not be measured. Inability to concentrate the mind, to plan activities, to meet sudden mental emergencies, is often noted in a noisy environment. The effect of noise in retarding recovery from illness has been long recognized. Reduction of noise both within and without the hospital will do much to make the life of the patient more bearable. Noises in and near schools are distracting. The double strain of noise and study is harmful to the growing child and doubtless lays the foundation for nervous troubles later in life.

The elimination of noise in cities and industrial centers, or even its great reduction, would seem to be a problem to defy solution, but all will agree with the writer already quoted, when he says: "Noise is a public health problem of no mean proportions. It merits the careful attention of health officers in their programs of health betterment. Its elimination presents an accomplishment for which engineers and industrial men should strive. It is physiologically, economically and socially desirable to reduce it to the lowest possible minimum."

In connection with the subject of "drinking on the move" with Hays, High Lord of Filibuster, makes an announcement that no third, word, phrase, clause or sentence shall appear if it may be suspected of containing "the slightest disregard for law," that no scenes may be inserted for the sake of showing "the funny side of prohibition if it has one," and that the manufacture, sale or undue effects of liquor may never be shown in order to "get a laugh." But drinking will be permitted on the screen if it is a "natural element" in the picture. If it is a "necessary part of the story," or "an essential element in the building up of the plot"—in such case it being unavoidable for the bottle to be uncorked and the glass lifted. It must be admitted that this reservation offers a pretty large loophole, but how otherwise can our ancestors be represented as they were, or foreigners and our patrons of the bootleggers be pictured as they are?

We read that Mr. Blues, our Minister to Colombia, returning to that country from a visit home, will avoid the long journey by boat, short line railroads and donkey trails necessary until three years ago, and make the 500-mile trip to Bogota in ten hours in lieu of the ten-day jaunt of old. Who says the Latin-Americans are behind the times? Evidently some of them are ahead of us in commercial aviation.

That Body of Yours

KNOWLEDGE OF BONES AND JOINTS.

Physicians who graduated ten to twenty years ago took up the study of bones and joints in the first year of the course, while those graduating since that time take it up in the second year.

As they go on into the more interesting study of the physiological and chemical actions in a healthy body, and the differences when these processes are not normal, that is pathology, and then on to the actual bedside study of sick people, they usually forget about the work of the first or second year, that is the bones and joints.

Now there is no question but that the knowledge of the physiology and chemistry of the body, the changes in the blood, the knowledge of the action of organisms and so forth are vastly more important than a knowledge of bones and joints, but very frequently when a patient complains of a backache or pain in hips, the doctor remembering only his latter years of study, looks around for some form of infection as the cause thereof.

And in seventy five per cent of the cases this is the right procedure. However when he gets a patient, man or woman, who is overweight he would certainly be very wise to go back in his mind to his first year at college, and remember that a heavy abdomen will carry the spine forward in the middle and lower part of the back, and the joint between the last spine bone and the hip bone will be put to a great strain. This strain is gradual of course following the gradual increase in weight, but the time comes when the strain is too great and pain follows. When this process goes on for a time, the nerves underlying this section are subjected to pressure, and severe pain ensues.

Further the nerves in this region actually supply all the tissues of the thighs and legs, and a severe sciatica often accompanies the backache or lumbago, as it is called.

A faulty standing or sitting position of course helps to make matters worse, the head is forward, shoulders dropped, chest flat, and abdomen allowed to droop also.

And the treatment of this backache? Correct standing or sitting position and reduction in weight.

It is necessary at first to perhaps strap the joints with adhesive for a couple of weeks and then apply a well fitting brace, the front portion or pad lifting the abdomen up against the spine which is likewise well supported by a pad.

A good fitting abdominal belt is usually sufficient for mild cases. If our regular physicians will then remember their first year study, they should get results in all back cases.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

The Legislature of New York First Proposes a Strong Central Government by Its Action of July 21, 1782.

Sagacious men perceived the utter inefficiency of the Articles of Confederation as a Constitution of the National Government, and as early as 1780, while their ratification by the states was pending, Alexander Hamilton, then only 23 years of age, in a long letter to James Duane, in Congress, dated "At the Liberty Pole," September 5, gave an outline sketch of a national constitution, and suggested the calling of a convention to frame such system of government.

During the year 1781 young Hamilton contributed to the "New York Packet," then being published in Fishkill, Dutchess county, a series of papers under the title of "The Constitutionalist," which were devoted chiefly to the discussion of the defects of the Articles of Confederation.

In the spring of 1782 Hamilton succeeded in having the subject brought before the legislature of New York, then in session at Poughkeepsie, and that body, by a resolution drawn by Hamilton and presented by his father-in-law, General Philip Schuyler, recommended on July 21, the assembling of a national convention to revise the Articles, "reserving the right of the respective legislatures to ratify their determinations."

The Continental Congress had been considering measures for meeting the claims of public creditors, and invited the several states to invest in that body power to levy duties on imports within their several jurisdictions. All the states acceded to this request excepting New York, which reserved that right to itself. At this juncture Congress asked Governor Clinton to call a special session of the legislature, for the purpose of passing a law conformable to those of other states concerning the public revenue. The governor refused compliance.

This independent action of New York made conspicuous the inherent weakness of the Articles of Confederation, as a form of national government. New York had already taken official action in giving to Congress more power for collecting revenue than had yet been proposed. "It is to the glory of New York," says Bancroft, "that its legislature was the first to leap the sanction of a state to the great conception of a Federal Convention to frame a constitution for the United States."

In the spring of 1783, Hamilton, in Congress, expressed an earnest desire for the calling of such a convention.

General Washington had observed with great anxiety the tendency toward ruin of the new government, and after grave discussions at Mount Vernon, he acted upon the suggestions of Hamilton made five years before, and proposed a convention of the several states to agree upon a plan of unity in a commercial arrangement, over which the present Congress had no control.

Coming from such a source, the suggestion was acted upon. A convention was called at Annapolis, Maryland. Only five states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Virginia, sent delegates. These met September 11, 1786. Alexander Hamilton represented New York. As there was not a majority of the states present, nothing was done except to recommend the assembling of another convention at Philadelphia in May of the next year.

Congress, by resolution on February 21, 1787, strongly urged the several legislatures to send deputies, with the result that the convention assembled at the appointed time, May 14, 1787. All the states but New Hampshire and Rhode Island were represented. Robert Yates, John Lansing, Jr., and Alexander Hamilton represented New York.

General Washington, a delegate from Virginia, was chosen president of the convention. He was ably supported by eminent statesmen from the several commonwealths. Yates and Lansing were strong "States Rights" men while Hamilton, as earnestly advocated the plan of a powerful Federal Government. Hamilton's opinion prevailed in the Federal Convention. Yates and Lansing withdrew and went home. The convention was in session from May until September, 1787. It framed a new Constitution—the one, with several amendments, under which the Republic has ever since been governed. It was adopted by the convention September 17, 1787. Copies of the instrument were sent to the Legislature of the several states for their ratification. Now came the tug of war. The adherents, respectively, of the idea of a strong central government and of state supremacy were apparently irreconcilably antagonistic.

Delaware was the first state to ratify the Constitution, December 7, 1787. Pennsylvania followed December 12, and New Jersey December 18.

New York ratified the instrument July 26, 1788, being the eleventh state to acquiesce, and therefore the third star in the second row of our flag represents the Empire State.

inseparable companions-

P.A. and jimmy-pipe joy

YES, indeed. Prince Albert and pipe-pleasure go together like "fair and colder," "Romeo and Juliet," "song and dance." Inseparable companions . . . in fair weather and foul. Wherever you see one, you see the other. Prince Albert means jimmy-pipe joy . . . precisely that!

P. A. is cool as picnic lemonade. Cool and consoling when problems press. Sweet and fragrant as wind-blown blossoms. Mild with a mildness that lets you smoke all you want, morning to midnight. Yet with sufficient body to let you know you are smoking. Nicely balanced!

You'll like the taste of this fine old pipe tobacco. More men have liked it than any other brand. This is a matter of record. Quality through and through. Real tobacco for real men. That's Prince Albert. Kind to your tongue and throat. Friendly in spirit and friendly in fact.

If you haven't smoked P. A., you can't possibly know how much deep-down satisfaction that old jimmy-pipe can give you. No matter how set you think you are, buy a tidy red tin of Prince Albert today. Tamp a load into your pipe and take a deep drag. Good? You said it!

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ANIMAL'S IDEA

"It's perfectly absurd," roared the lion. "You're surely absurd."

"It's utterly absurd," roared the lioness.

"It's too ridiculous for words," said the leopard.

"I think it is nonsense," said the panther.

"It's so silly," said the puma.

"It's the most foolish thing of which I have ever heard," said the tiger.

"I've an idea," said the lion, roaring.

The lioness, "So have I," said the lioness, roaring, too.

"I believe I have one," said the leopard.

And one by one, the panther, the puma and the tiger each said that they had an idea, too.

"I wonder," roared the lion, "if we all have different ideas or if we have the same one."

"I wonder that."

And that set all the animals to wondering if they each had a different idea or if each of them had thought of the same thing.

"The only way to find out is for each of us to give his or her idea," said the lioness.

"That's right," said the lion.

"That's so," said the leopard.

"That's the truth," said the panther.

"The only way," said the tiger.

"That's right," they all agreed, raring and growling.

So they each gave his or her idea, and they each found that the idea was the same.

They had heard the zoo people say that the cost of food was going up and they had heard that everyone talked of the high cost of living, which meant it was hard to pay such big prices for meat and other things for meals.

"Well, each animal had an idea, as each had said, and each idea of all those animals was the same."

"Yes," said the lioness, "if they complain of the cost of feeding us at any time we can tell them we will leave their zoo and go out to hunt for ourselves."

"We don't have to pay for the food we can get. We hunt for it and we find it and we eat it, we do." And she roared as she thought of it.

"Yes," said the panther, "it is senseless to talk of the high cost of food in the zoo when every one of us knows that we could go out and do our own marketing tomorrow—that is after a journey a little distance to where it was a bit wild and free—and then the price and money wouldn't bother us."

And they all agreed that people were foolish who worried about such things!

"We will leave if they think we are an expense," said the lion.

"We don't care about staying if that is the way they feel about it," said the lioness.

"We'd rather go, anyway," she said.

"We would," said the leopard.

"Indeed we would," said the panther.

"I would leave any time," said the puma.

"So would I," said the tiger.

So they all agreed that it was foolish of the zoo people to complain about how much their animal guests cost them in food, when all the guests would be quite willing to leave.

If they were staying and showing what they were like to the visitors, and were letting others know about them and their ways so that they were becoming better informed about animals—that's all very well.

But they needn't complain about any high prices for they were guests, many of them, who were not staying on completely and entirely of their own free will and accord!

That was what these animals thought.

Excusable

"Willie, why is your department so or in school?"

GEYSER WATER DRINKING BRINGS QUICK BENEFITS

Stomach. Digestion and Nerves
Responsive to its Medicinal Efficacy

The faith which people have in Geyser, sparkling table water, is justified. The State of New York would not have gone to such great expense to take the famous Geyser spring under its supervision if this long-known medicinal water had not long ago proven its great worth in relieving human ailments.

Delicious and appetizing, refreshing and stimulating, Geyser goes into the modern, soft food diet to prevent the generation of acids which upset the stomach, derange digestion, bring on headaches, eye troubles, faulty elimination and the other complications that often follow acid indigestion. There is no use arguing about whether Geyser will or will not benefit you. Ask your doctor or order a case of Geyser from your dealer. Sip a bottle with each meal and another before retiring. Hundreds of thousands travel to Saratoga for this purpose every year and have done so for generations and generations. You may have Geyser served on your own table at very nominal expense. Drink a bottle of natural Geyser water upon arising, to sweep out the dietary mistakes of yesterday and correct habitual faulty elimination. Hathorn is a sparkling, naturally carbonated, pleasant tasting, medicinal water.

Sold in Hest Grocery Co.'s Store, and by other high-class dealers.

Boston Post Road Was Blazed Trial

Highway Familiar to Many Ulster County Motorists Has Interesting History, Similar to Post Roads in This Vicinity.

A glance at the history of the Boston Post Road, as outlined herewith by the Bureau of Tours of the Automobile Club of America, reveals the perseverance and foresight of the leaders in those early days who established this highway when the trail had to be "blazed" through sections of unbroken forest.

When Francis Lovelace became governor of New York, in 1665, the King instructed him to do all in his power to promote friendly intercourse with the other English Colonies, and especially with New England. In pursuance of this policy he visited Governor Winthrop of Connecticut and the, discussed the establishment of a post road to connect New York and Boston. It was not until 1672, however, that the plan was put into execution. Then the governor of New York wrote this message to Governor Winthrop: "I here present you with two rarities—a packet of the latest intelligence I could meet withal, and a Post. By the first you will see what has been acted on the Stage of Europe, by the latter you will meet with a monthly, fresh supply." He informed Governor Winthrop that the messenger was sworn to deliver the mail, which was sent gratis, and that he expected the same courtesy for the return letters. The plan of Governor Lovelace was to have a messenger start from New York each Monday and return within a month with the return mail, Hartford was to be the first stopping place for a change of horses.

He also wrote to Governor Winthrop that "it would be much advantageous to our design if, in the interval, you discoursed with some of the most able woodmen to make out the best and most facile way for a Post which in process of time would be the King's best highway."

The post-rider started out from New York on a cold winter's day, January 22, 1673, with the first mail. His route led from the fort, at the lower end of Broadway, north over the highway—through the land gate in the Palisades at Wall street—and thence over the cow-path to the fields, the present City Hall Park. Here he turned east, around the rectangular pasture land of the city, into the Bowery Lane leading to Bowery Village, and over the new road to New Harlem; he continued on to the ferry at Spuyten Duyvil, where he put up at the tavern of Johannes Vervelen for the night. We can imagine that the tired traveler was glad to stop for the night; to be sure, he had ridden only fifteen miles, but the short day would not permit covering a greater distance and then, too, the horses must be rested, for no change could be made until Hartford was reached.

At Eastchester, the post-rider followed the Indian Trail, and crossed the Bronx River at Williamsburg. He then followed the Mohican Indian Trail, stopping at Horseneck for the night. The next day's journey led him through the settlements along the Sound.

From New Haven on to Hartford and Springfield the post-rider found his way plain.

At Springfield he crossed the Connecticut river and turned eastward over the Indian Trail, which the early settlers used in 1673, when they came into the Connecticut Valley from Massachusetts.

Two Weeks for the Trip.

On through Worcester he rode and through Roxbury into Boston. Just two weeks after leaving New York he delivered the mail at his destination.

The way back was easier, for he had mapped out his way and, within a month of the time he started out, the mail bags from Boston were delivered to the Governor's secretary in New York.

When New York was taken by the Dutch in 1673, the post was abandoned because they did not care to keep up communication with their northern neighbors.

In November, 1674, the English again gained control of New York, but the post-road was abandoned after King Philip's War, in 1675, which devastated large portions of the country between New York and Boston. In 1685, Governor Dongan revived the post.

Early Highway Protection.

The Old Boston Post Road was first officially mentioned as a post road in 1713. Trees were planted along the route, and punishment was inflicted upon persons injuring them. The breaking or defacing of the milestones was also a serious offense.

Taverns, some of which became quite famous, were established along the route, generally at milestones.

It is hard to realize that the important and prosperous cities of New York, Bridgeport, New Haven, Hartford, Springfield and Worcester have grown from the small hamlets that clustered along the Post Road.

Now, motorists wishing to take the Post Road to Boston, follow numerous old marked on the telegraph poles in yellow and black, to New Haven, number two to Springfield, and number five to Boston.

For an alternate return, route number one can be followed out of Boston, through Providence, Narragansett Pier, and along the Shore Road through Westerly, New London, Serbrook, Guilford, Branford to New Haven, and along the Post Road back to New York.

Cole Laws Solve School Problem

Former Advocate of Rural School Bill Says They Are Most Constructive School Legislation Passed in a Generation—Accomplish Results in Simple Way.

Ulster county never viewed the Rural School Bill with very much favor, and the entreaties of the Committee of Twenty-one during the time the Rural School Bill was pending before successive legislatures fell on deaf ears most of the time.

What the Rural School Bill sought to accomplish by complicated machinery is actually capable of accomplishment in simplified form by the Cole School Laws.

One of the strongest advocates of the Rural School Bill was the American Agriculturist, whose editor, E. R. Eastman, in a leading editorial in his magazine, recants his former advocacy of that bill and gives full credit to the Cole School Laws which are now in effect.

The American Agriculturist says: The Unfair School Taxes.

The great problem before the people of New York is to continue to give country children all of the advantages of education without taxing farmers off of the land. The rural school problem is not the one-room school. It is instead a too small unit for school taxation. The school districts, which are the tax districts for school purposes, were laid out over a hundred years ago. At that time, the wealth of the state was largely agricultural. Most of the people lived in the country. Great corporations did not exist. The cost of education was low, either, because everything was low in price and because all little was taught except reading, writing and arithmetic.

Today the burden of work upon the schools is five times greater. We demand more for our children in the way of education. Even within twenty-five years the number of children who are seeking free high school education has more than doubled. Fathers and mothers want their children to have the best there is in education in order to be good citizens.

So, of course, school taxes have increased by leaps and bounds, and as they have increased, a great unfairness has crept in whereby some people with the same property pay many times as much taxes for the same kind of schools as others. A few wealthy districts in each town have the benefit of the taxes paid by the large corporations.

In Delaware county, for example, there is one district which has an equalized valuation per teacher of approximately thirty-four times as much as four others. In Tompkins county, there are three districts whose true valuations are about one-twelfth that of the wealthiest districts. In Erie county, there is one district which has a valuation of over sixty times as much as any other district. In Clinton county, the highest valuation of one district is over seventy times that of the lowest. Can anyone say that such a situation is fair?

The school district, as it was originally laid out, was all right in the early days. Property was evenly distributed. Today, many of these districts are so small that the school taxes in them are ruining the farmers.

This absurd and unfair tax situation is just what the recent Cole legislation was designed to help. There are two ways in which it will help when it once gets to working.

In the first place, an appropriation of nine million dollars a year was made for direct state aid to rural schools. The law was so passed that the smallest and weakest district schools will get the most aid. The first money will be appropriated this year.

The second plan of the law gives those districts which wish the right to centralize by joining with other nearby districts to provide good school advantages for all of the children of the whole district without throwing an additional tax burden upon those weaker districts which are already overtaxed.

It is to be expected that this law would meet with some criticism from those richest districts which have had such high valuations and therefore low taxes. But even with these, there will be little criticism when the nine million dollars from the state begins going into all rural schools, for this sum should go a long way in helping to keep all rural school taxes down. Besides, most residents, particularly parents in these rich districts are fair. They are willing to pay their share for education for their children.

It certainly behooves those parents who are interested in the welfare of their children and those residents in the great number of rural school districts which are at present over-taxed to realize "on which side their bread is buttered," by supporting this school legislation instead of opposing it.

For certain reasons best known to themselves, certain interests in this state under disguise of the name of the Rural School Improvement Society have been bitterly attacking and misrepresenting the Cole rural school legislation. These interests are "wolves in sheep's clothing." They have no real interest in the district school or in the welfare of the country boys or girls.

The Cole school laws are the most constructive school legislation that has been passed in a generation. These laws do not force consolidation. Centralization will not even be permitted except by vote of the great majority of the rural school patrons themselves. These laws do not close the rural schools. They do not force country children to be transported for long distances. But they will go a long way toward helping to relieve the present unfair tax burden upon rural school patrons, and they will help give country children every opportunity for an education.

Travel throughout some and others and broad learn over-estating and under-estimating.

While in Danbury she was entertained in her former teacher, Miss Doris Osborne, who is retiring this year after teaching for fifty-three years in the public schools of Danbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fenton, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Van Wagenen in town, left New York last Saturday for their new home in Berea, Kentucky, where Mr. Fenton is to serve as head teacher of mathematics in the preparatory department of Berea College. Mr. Fenton and his wife, formerly Elizabeth Van Wagenen, are both graduates of New Palitz Normal in the same class with Superintendent John U. Gillette. Mr. Fenton has been a teacher and principal in New York city and Brooklyn for about thirty years and is retiring on a minimum pension in order to carry out a life-long ambition to help the neglected, who are eager for an education.

B. Bennett has purchased an Oldsmobile coach.

Miss Beatrice DuBois and Carolyn Jayne of Gardiner were in town on Tuesday.

Thursday evening, July 22, the community committee plans to hold its first block party of the season. Benjamin Matteson is chairman of the entertainment committee. Daniel Shaw is the new president and will conduct the exercises. The music will be furnished by Malschneider's orchestra.

Commander Ernest Reason, who has been attending the convention of the United Spanish War Veterans at Saratoga Springs the past week, writes: "New Palitz is represented here. The people here have been very kind to us. The mayor came on the key in the town. We had very cold weather Sunday, and Monday it rained all day."

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jenkins and Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Van Orden were among the guests entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis LeFevre at dinner in Forest Glen, Wednesday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Philip LeFevre.

Jack Dempsey Is Going to Fight

Heavyweight Champion Will Defend His Title—When and Where and Who Still Unknown—Kearns' Contract Expires August 4.

Chicago, July 21.—Jack Dempsey is going to fight.

Just when and where and who are elements still unknown but it was definitely learned today that the heavyweight champion is actually ready to sign a contract.

Immediately after his arrival in Chicago August 5 from his Colorado training camp.

That date—August 5—is significant.

Twenty-four hours previous Dempsey's long-lamented contract with his former manager, Jack Kearns, will have expired.

Most likely Dempsey will defend his title against Gene Tunney and the bout will be staged in New York or New Jersey.

That appeared the final low-down today as Tex Rickard, the happy New York promoter, girded himself for a conference with Dempsey's new manager, Gene Normile, following five successive days of giving Chicago the little merry-go-round in the approved fashion of the roaring forties.

Rickard has an option on Dempsey's services and as soon as Kearns' contract has expired he will exercise it most fully by having the heavyweight king sign a contract, thus shutting out Kearns from any of the boudoir.

Dempsey in Superb Shape.

Normile, who arrived in Chicago tonight, Dempsey only weighed 196 pounds and was in superb shape, made it plain the champion had no use of fulfilling a contract with the Chicago Coliseum Club to fight Harry Wells in Chicago.

Normile said the Chicago Club ought to pay Dempsey $100,000 last March, as agreed, and as a consequence the contract was now null and void.

That the wise Mr. Rickard has a future Dempsey bout right at the bottom of the bag and intends to stage it either in New York or New Jersey or Chicago there appeared no question.

As soon as Dempsey has signed a contract with him, Rickard will snap a rattler to New York and make a final appearance before the commission on a Dempsey-Tunney fight. Should the New York body buy him out, Rickard plans to sell his contract to the highest bidder—presumably some one in Chicago.

While spending five days in Chicago preparing for Dempsey's arrival, Rickard has not been idle.

Details of a visit paid by him to the new Illinois Boxing Commission revealed today that Rickard highly complimented the commissioners on the fact that, including the weather, he established himself on extremely friendly terms with the commission.

While it was stated he did not really discuss a Dempsey bout with the Illinois Solons, he did mention it as a possibility.

Having Dempsey's contract in his pocket and basking in the smile of the Illinois Commission, Rickard was with much fortitude face the news of the New York body.

New York or Chicago may be right or wrong but Mr. Rickard is absolutely right.

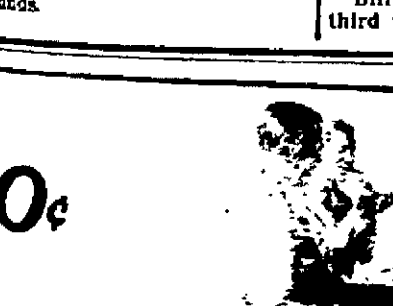

Assault Word From Tex.

New York, July 21.—Following the failure of the New York State Athletic Commission to rule that the Dempsey-Tunney fight could be held in this state, boxing fans here today waited the expected announcement of promoter Tex Rickard that Chicago has been selected as the scene of the big fight.

Commissioner William Muldoon urged the board to reconsider its action in refusing to sanction the bout, but his motion was tabled.

HAGEN FAILED TO BREAK WORLD'S RECORD

Delaware Water Gap, Pa., July 21.—Although golfers were loud in their praise of Walter Hagen today as a result of his victory over Johnny Farrell by a margin of nine strokes in the Eastern open championship here, disappointment was expressed of Sir Walter's failure to break the world's record of 274 for 72 holes of medal golf, set by Emmet French of Youngstown in the Ohio open championship in 1922.

Hagen's brilliant 69 in the afternoon failed to offset a mediocre round of 74 in the morning round, which was marred by rain. His final score was 275, one stroke above the record.

Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago finished third with 289.

K. G. & E. Needs One More Game

For the Industrial League Honors—Defeated the Athletics Tuesday. Score 7 to 3.

The Kingston Gas & Electric took a stronger hold on first place Tuesday night, at the Athletic Field, by beating the Athletics 7-3. They need but one more game to clinch the cup.

The Athletics out-hit the Gasmen, 10-7, but they wasted most of their hits. The Gasmen hit at the opportune moments. The Gasmen had three misuses chalked against them, the Athletics four, the Athletics doing the most damage.

Knight led the hitters, getting four hits out of four times up, one going for a double. Hoffman was the best stickler for the Gasmen, getting two doubles.

Whittaker and Fitzgerald were the opposing pitchers. Whittaker allowed the most hits, but he was given fine support in the pinches.

The Athletics scored two in the first frame after the Gasmen failed to score in their half. Lewis singled to open the inning. Norton hit for two bases down the left field line. Knight singled and Lewis and Norton scored.

Hoffman got his first double in the second inning and scored on Flanagan's single. Flanagan going to second on the throw home. He took third on a passed ball and scored on Lewis's error. Quinn being safe on first. Sickler hit to left field and Quinn scored, making three for the inning. They scored two more in the third on a walk, a single and an error. In the sixth Flanagan singled and Whittaker hit one to center field for a triple. They scored one more in the last inning.

The Athletics had men on the bags in every inning, but they were stranded in all except the sixth when they managed to shove one across.

Flanagan pulled Whittaker out of a big hole in the fifth when he made a nice running catch of Brophy's fly and doubled Knight off second.

Knight fattened his batting average quite a lot with his four hits. He failed to score, however.

HAL CHASE, JR., A CHIMP OF THE OLD BLOCK

San Francisco, July 21.—A little, bronzed lad of sixteen walked into the offices of the Mission Club of the Pacific Coast League yesterday and signed a contract.

The boy is Hal Chase, Jr., son of the once famous baseball star of the same name and according to those who have watched him in action, a chip of the old block when it comes to playing baseball.

Young Chase was determined to make baseball his career and to redeem on the diamond the name of his father.

He is still in school and will remain there for the next two years, practicing with the Missions on Saturdays and Sundays and during vacation periods.

In 1924 he will join the club organization. President William H. McCarthy announced after the boy had signed his contract to the club.

"He has the same natural ability of his father and with the experience he will soon be able to do the best two years, I expect him to develop into a valuable man," McCarthy said.

Seven in Seventh Wins for Locals

Colonials Score Seven Runs in Lucky Seventh and Down D. & H. Generals 8 to 4 at Fair Grounds.

As the Colonials were preparing to mourn a lost ball game in the seventh frame with the D. and H. Generals ahead by a 3 to 0 tally Tuesday evening, things began to happen suddenly. As the locals went to the bat in the seventh the Generals left fielder was in no hurry in pursuing a possible putout with the result that Ferdie Allen's connection became a hit. This pleased the fans who began to root their heads off and at the same time the Colonials started warlike proceedings. It turned the ball game inside out for as the Kingstonians hit four safeties the railroaders caught up the spirit of the occasion and committed four boots and the General pitcher walked a couple. Then everybody stood by and watched the Colonials roll seven runs across the plate. The final score was Colonials, 8; D. and H. Generals, 4.

The Phelpsman scored one more run in the eighth frame after the wild seventh. With McCue on first, Matty Deegan poled out an old-time clout which went for two bases and McCue scored. Up until the seventh the Phelpsman had not connected for more than two hits and not a run had been shoved across the platter.

Pat Simmons, a new-found twirler was introduced to the fans by Manager Schermerhorn. He was doing wonders until the seventh when the Colonials started the sparks flying.

Bob Conroy did the twirling for the Kingstonians and didn't have a bad time of it although the railroaders made things a little hot for him one or two times during the issue.

Bob was in an awful hole in the opening frame with three men on the bags and not a runner out. All three were aching to tally but the Colonials played smart baseball and only one lived to cross the deadline. When Miller, the fourth man to go to bat, out, O'Brien got the grounder and tossed Evers out at the plate and then received the ball back in time to get Miller. Marterer singled but this didn't make any trouble, for Herbert fled out to Peters.

Four hits, three in a row and a boot gave the Generals two more markers in the sixth frame. After the locals had enjoyed such a big time in the seventh the Generals could score but one marker. In the eighth, Miller landed a hit and then came in on Herbert's out to center field.

In the seventh Allen hit to left field which the outfielder assigned to this post took his time fielding. This touched a match to the game and an explosion followed. Kelly got a walk and McCue hit to third while Allen came home. Deegan was also walked and O'Brien connected with a single and Kelly scored. The ball went past the left fielder again and McCue and Deegan scored, the latter coming in as the infield throw went past second. Melvin singled and Conroy fanned. Phelps hit at Sandy who booted it and Melvin came in.

Ferdie Allen got his usual impossible catch out in left field. Sandy was a victim this time in the fifth frame.

In the opening frame Ferdie nearly put the enemy pitcher out of commission. Allen hit out a red hot drive which caught Simmons in the leg and made him limp around for a few minutes.

That seventh frame proves again that a ball game is never won until the last out of the last inning.

The Generals now have two and the Colonials one.

For the Kingstonians: Played 27, won 15, lost 10, tied 1. Pct. .615.

McConnell Giants will be at the Fair Grounds Friday night instead of the Schenectady Police.

Tagging Major League Bases

The fast-traveling Tigers knocked the Athletics for two successive and distinct goals by scores of 3 to 0 and 4 to 2, sweeping the series. Big Collins held the A's to five hits in the opener.

Although the Yankees lost to the Browns, 2 to 4, they increased their lead to seven and one-half games. Babe Ruth delivered his 24th homer and is now twenty-one days and games behind his 1921 record.

Scoring seven runs in one inning, Cleveland thrashed the Senators 9 to 2 behind Sherry Smith's twinning.

The White Sox smothered the Red Sox again, 12 to 2. Red Fisher was hit hard but stood for no nonsense when his mound turns.

Pittsburgh joined the Reds in pulling away from the maddening crowd of second center base by smothering the Braves off the club again, 3 to 0. The Pirates were outbatted but the Braves were outsmarted.

Pete Donohue, the champion hard-bat pitcher of the big leagues, had a bit of good luck for a change when the Reds beat the Dodgers in the ninth, 5 to 4, on an error.

The amazing Cubs knocked the Giants silly again and beat them to a pulp, 15 to 2. The enraged Bruins pounded four New York golfers for eighteen bingles while Irish Melvin got half of the Giants' eight hits.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 21.—Bullish forces in the stock market repulsed a well-directed attack against the motor and industrial stocks by the professional bears today, and, after achieving a good volume of stocks, renewed their efforts for higher prices. In the recovery which followed, the motor stocks were the acknowledged leaders, though moderate gains were also made by the oil stocks, which have been under pressure for a week or more.

The foreign exchange markets responded favorably to reports that the Herriot government would resign tonight. French francs were quoted around 2.16 cents against yesterday's low of 193 1/2 cents. Italian and Belgian currencies rose in sympathy with the French.

General Motors was an aggressive leader in the forward movement in the fourth hour, advancing to within a fraction of its former high record. Hudson Motors made a sharp come-back, and, after an early decline to 63 1/2, almost duplicated yesterday's high price at 67.

Anacosta Copper sold at a new high at 51. The public utilities were slightly higher. A 4-point decline in Lorillard to below 23 was based on reports of a possible reduction of the annual dividend on the stock.

Pools in the industrials and specialty stocks "stood by" their favorites and took back a good volume of stock offered on profit-taking. Cast Iron Pipe, American Safety Razor and other of the socially durable stocks were active and strong. Call money was in supply at 4 per cent.

GREAT DAMAGE FROM ELECTRICAL STORM

Winnipeg, Man., July 21.—A severe electrical storm last night and early today did considerable damage to Lake Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Homes and barns were wrecked by the strong wind and others were struck by lightning.

It was estimated that twenty per cent of the crops near Gerald, Saskatchewan, were pulled out of the ground by the heavy rain and wind.

The roof was blown off the station at Spill Hill, Saskatchewan, and boxes were lifted from the tracks.

Practically every building at Magazette, Manitoba, was damaged to some extent and the main exhibit building at the agricultural exhibition was blown down.

Hail near Birmingham, Saskatchewan, was reported to have caused a heavy loss to crops.

Wadsworth Sure To Win, Says Fess

Revolt of West Against East Pro- posterous Says Senator Fess—Also Predicts Re-election of Butler in Massachusetts.

White Pine Camp, N. Y., July 21.—Talk of a revolt of the agricultural west against the industrial east is "the purest poppycock," Senator Simon D. Fess, (R.), of Ohio, member of the Republican senatorial campaign committee and author of the administration's unsuccessful farm relief bill, declared here today.

The senator was an overnight guest of President Coolidge.

"It is preposterous to think that the west is going to rise up against the east," he said. "Why, the farmer of the west couldn't live 24 hours without the east. It must be remembered that 92 per cent of everything produced on American farms is consumed domestically, and the east furnishes a large percentage of the market."

In so far as the administration is concerned, Senator Fess indicated that it intended to stand pat on the farm policy advanced in the closing days of the last session of Congress. The Ohioan will reintroduce in December his bill which would have created a farm board to study agricultural problems, and a $100,000,000 revolving fund for loan to the farmers.

Beyond this measure, which received the formal endorsement of President Coolidge, Senator Fess believes the administration will not go. Fess predicted the re-election of Butler in Massachusetts and Wadsworth in New York.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral of Andrew Kleiber, who died at New Paltz Friday evening, was held from the funeral parlors of Frank J. McCordle of Rosendale, Monday morning at 10:30. Interment was made in the family plot in Bloomingbury cemetery, the Rev. C. V. W. Bedford officiating.

Mrs. Jennie E. Sicks, widow of Judson Kelly, formerly of Poughkeepsie, died today. She is survived by one son, Ernest A. Kelly, of this city. Funeral services Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the funeral parlors of Irving G. Stoin, 19 Academy street, Poughkeepsie. Interment in the Poughkeepsie Rural cemetery.

Charles L. Hoff died at his home in Katsbaan, Tuesday morning, after a long illness, in his seventy-eighth year. He is survived by his wife, a son, Edwin, and a brother, Edwin Hoff. Funeral Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence. Interment in Katsbaan cemetery.

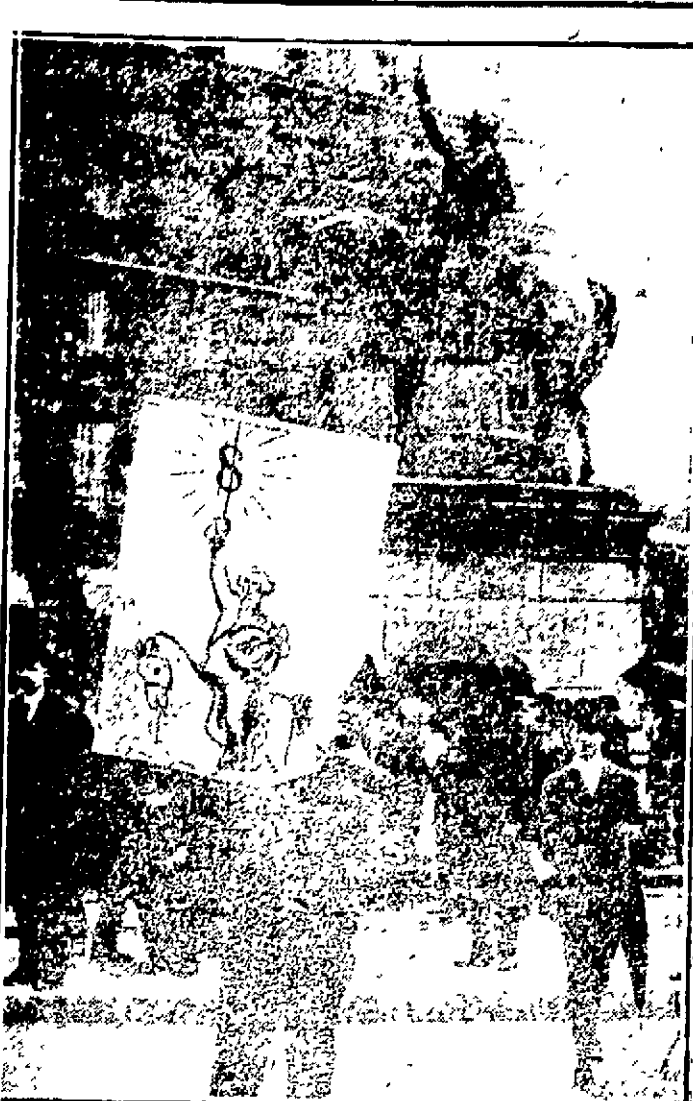

John W. Myer died at New Paltz on Monday, July 19. Deceased was a native of Saugerties and a painter by vocation. He is survived by two daughters, Jennie and Dottie, and three sons, John, Robert and Gilbert. The body was taken to Saugerties for funeral and interment. Mr. Myer was in his sixty-eighth year.

Barbara A. Hein died at an early hour this morning at her residence in Sleightsburgh. Mrs. Hein was the wife of John J. Hein, the well-known barber who conducted the barber shop in the Ulster County Savings Bank building for over 50 years. Besides her husband, Mrs. Hein is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. C. Sleight of Washington, D. C. The funeral will be private and will be held from her late residence on Friday at 2:30 p. m. Friends may call between the hours of nine and twelve Friday morning. Interment in the Port Ewen cemetery.

Alice M. Morgan, wife of Thomas J. Cusack, the well-known plumber of this city, died Tuesday evening following a long illness. Mrs. Cusack was born in Poughkeepsie, the daughter of the late Peter and Mary Carley Morgan, and 36 years ago came to this city where she has endeared herself to a large circle of friends by her genial and loving disposition and willingness to lend a hand to any one in trouble or in need. Besides her husband she leaves two sons, Thomas J. Cusack, Jr., of Detroit, and Edwin D. Cusack, of this city, also three daughters, Mrs. John H. McManus and the Misses Alice and Elizabeth Cusack, all of this city. Funeral from the morning at 9 o'clock, and at 9:30 a. m. from 139 Main street, Friday at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's Church, with a requiem Mass for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

Captain Andrew Cockfair, for many years a resident of Connelly, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Vincent E. Valentine, 5542 105th street, Richmond Hill, N. Y., Tuesday, July 20, aged 83 years. Captain Cockfair, who for many years was connected with the New York harbor fireboat service, had led a varied life for several years he was well known about Manhattan and had recently had gone for a visit at the home of his daughter at Richmond Hill. Besides his wife, Jeanette, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Vincent E. Valentine and Mrs. Wm. P. Cockfair, both of Richmond Hill, and one sister, Mrs. Lillian Cockfair of Hoffman street, this city. Funeral services from the home of his daughter in Richmond Hill this evening at 8 o'clock and also from the family residence on Connelly street Thursday evening at 8 o'clock with interment in the Port Ewen cemetery.

French Deputies Not Enthusiastic About Herriot

(French Legislators Indifferent as New Premier Delivers First Address—Only $125,000 Left in Treasury.)

Paris, July 21.—Facing an hostile audience, Premier Herriot went before the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon and delivered his ministerial declaration of policy, realizing that it was probably a prelude to his defeat.

The declaration was extremely brief, and as unspecific as it was brief.

Deputies sat indifferently and listened, without any indication of approval or disapproval. The only applause came from a handful of Socialists and Radical Socialists.

"France intends to settle the debts she contracted in defense of her liberty, insofar as her capacity of payment permits," said M. Herriot touching on the question of inter-allied debts.

"It is the view of this government that the country can save itself," M. Herriot then asked an immediate vote of confidence.

"Let us know immediately if you have a majority for another formula," he said.

M. Herriot's statement declared in favor of penalties for Frenchmen who refuse to repatriate their foreign holdings.

"This government intends to institute a tax on all assets now in the service of public credit," declared the premier, which was regarded as a disguised proposal for a measure which virtually would amount to a capital levy.

The premier's statement with regard to foreign debts was considered as enigmatical, although some believed it came dangerously near to threatening repudiation. The premier's statement on this matter was in full as follows:

"France intends to pay the debts she contracted in defense of her liberty in a measure and form. She will be sure and able to keep the engagements she will take. But, we retain absolute independence of action in all spheres."

"We refuse to increase the limit circulation," said the premier.

"Our aim is to stabilize our money, but we intend that effort shall not be accomplished alone by external aid."

The premier called for restrictions and economies, beginning with the government. He promised that his government would not adjourn parliament but would sit all summer long if necessary.

Only $125,000 Left.
Finance Minister De Monzie told the chamber that there is but 60,000,000 francs (approximately $125,000) in the treasury, with which to meet governmental obligations.

Yes, It's True

This was Tex Richard's reply to the question, "Are you going to marry?" Then he paused at his telephoning. "She is 25, not 16," he corrected. "And we are engaged, not married." Richard made this announcement while in Chicago arranging for the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago in September.

First Ride May Be His Last

Olean, N. Y., July 21.—The first ride ever taken in an automobile by David Forrester, centenarian, may be his last.

Forrester was struck by an automobile while crossing the street and conveyed to the hospital in the machine. Doctors today held out little hope for his recovery. The aged man suffered fractures of the hip and skull injuries.

The centenarian had often boasted that he had never ridden in an automobile.

When he regained consciousness in the hospital, he said:

"I had to get knocked down to get a ride in one of these wagons." Forrester celebrated his one hundredth birthday on April 1, 1925, and on that occasion was feted and dined by local business men at a gathering presided over by Mayor George H. Pierce.

The old man was born in Livingston county, New York, and is not believed to have any living relatives.

Girl Drowned At Amsterdam

Amsterdam, N. Y., July 21.—The death of one Amsterdam resident and the serious injury of another were traced directly to the heat wave today. The dead is Miss Ruth Chace, 27, of 22 Essex street, and the injured, Mrs. Wilhelmina Bowman, 54, of 1 Morrison Place.

Miss Chace was drowned in Schoharie Creek at Mill Point while swimming to seek relief from the heat. She entered the creek at a point where there are deep holes. Her body has not been recovered.

Mrs. Bowman collapsed from the heat by the side of the Saratoga line of the Schoharie Railway here. A car ran over one of her hands, crushing two fingers so that they had to be amputated. Doctors reported her condition as favorable today.

Soviet Leader Dead at Moscow

Moscow, July 21.—High leaders of the Soviet are today standing guard at the bier of Felix E. Dzerzhinsky, chairman of the Supreme Economic Council, who died suddenly of heart disease.

The body lies in state in Union House and impressive funeral ceremonies will be held tomorrow.

Dzerzhinsky, in appearance a mild-mannered kindly man, has long been known in Russia as one of the most relentless men in the Soviet's pursuit of its enemies. As former head of the Cheka—the secret police—he organized the spy system which brought terror to thousands of Russians and he was said to be responsible for many of the harsh decrees and the strict sentences laid down by the Cheka.

No person in Russia was closer to Lenin than Dzerzhinsky, who at times has been credited with having been Lenin's closest adviser. He worked a great influence over the former Soviet leader and undoubtedly aided him in the shaping of policies.

Dzerzhinsky was an exiled convict in the Ural mines when the revolution of 1917 broke out, but he made his way back to Petrograd and immediately rose to heights and at one time he held a half dozen important posts in the Soviet government at the same time. Death found him holding the post of chairman of the Supreme Economic Council.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

Without a trace of static after the late afternoon concerts, last night was perfect for radio reception. No new claim jumpers were heard and there was little blooping.

The DX prizes were WSE, Atlanta, WCOA, Pensacola, and WBAP, Fort Worth. Of course, WOC, WCCO and all of the Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Detroit stations were heard.

CKAC and CNRO were clear. The latter was transmitting a long debate on some ponderous Canadian political matter.

"Horses" came late but very loud from WJZ, which had one of its fits of spreading all over the dial, lasting about 20 minutes.

Then there was "Her-diddle-diddle", fully as intellectual a production as "Horses".

"I Own My Own Lones" has reached Detroit and the Red Apple Club. A sissy monologist bored from Toronto for almost an hour.

Goldy and Dusty were heard from WFI far better than from WEAF.

All Cooks Look Alike

to the hungry man, but what a sad disappointment when the "kitchen queen" quite suddenly and the table looks anything but satisfying to a mortal appetite. When in doubt as to what to do, use The Freeman's "Help Wanted" Card a-Word Department.
